

Cargo

Our SPS principals have worked extensively with airports, airlines and cargo professionals to develop air cargo complexes that work compatibly with passenger operations and link seamlessly with local ground access networks. We fully appreciate the extent to which Cargo can be an integral part of the financial success of airport and airline operations and plan such facilities accordingly.

The integrated efficiency of cargo operations can significantly improve the balance of airside and landside capacity, while airport revenue generation opportunities can benefit from the integration of integrated belly cargo operations. Strategic planning of cargo facilities to provide a balance of separate access with integrated movement areas can reduce conflicts and share staging areas with differential operational peaks.
